Looking up Information Without Turning Pages: The Classic Works of Theology Online

Digital pioneers after more than 500 years of printing tradition: Schwabe makes thousands of printed pages available online, thus combining proven classics with state-of-the-art functionalities. The «Augustinus-Lexikon online» and the «Corpus Augustinianum Gissense» online, supervised by the Zentrum für Augustinusforschung, are the two fundamental works of philosophy and theology within the Schwabe online databases, now available by subscription — separately or as a package. For maximum digital support of research and teaching in the humanities.

Augustinus-Lexikon online

With the AL-online one of the major publications for researchers on Augustine and the Late Roman period has been made electronically available in full text. The Augustinus-Lexikon, designed as encyclopaedia and dictionary of terms, provides a comprehensive overview over life and thoughts, writings, and contemporary context of Augustine, the North African rhetorician, philosopher and probably the most important theologian.

Corpus Augustinianum Gissense online

The CAG-online includes the electronic corpus with any writings, sermons and letters of Augustine of Hippo. The base texts of the CAG-online have been assembled from the best available printed editions — critical ones where possible. Their misprints have, for the most part, been corrected. The recently discovered Sermones Dolbeau and Sermones Erfurt have been incorporated as well as the letters, edited within the Augustinian corpus, but not written by Augustine himself. Every word form occurring in the text is lemmatised to help facilitate research. Furthermore, the CAG-online provides comfortable access to a database of Augustinian primary and secondary literature, currently comprehending approx. 34,000 bibliographical data records, developed with regard to content.
